

INFANT DAUGHTER KILLED AS SHE IS TOSSED OUT OF MOTHER'S ARMS AND CRUSHED BENEATH CAR

Joanne Stehn, 4 Months Old, Fallsington, Meets Instant Death
When Car Overtakes On State Road Below Bristol—
Father, Mother and Two Others Are Injured

A four-months-old daughter, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stehn, Fallsington, was instantly killed late yesterday afternoon when she went through the door-window of her parents' car which turned over after crashing into the rear of another machine on State Road, just below Bristol.

The mother, on whose lap the infant was sitting when the accident occurred, was slightly injured. The father was also hurt, as were two other men occupants of the car.

Dead: Joanne Stehn, 4 months old; killed instantly.
Injured: Robert Stehn, father of Joanne; contused and lacerated wound of forehead.

Mrs. Robert Stehn, mother of Joanne; abrasions of right leg.

Lawrence Templeton, 553 Swain street, Bristol; spinal injury.

The dead child, with her parents, were taken to the Harman Hospital, as was also Wilson.

Templeton was treated at the Wagner Hospital.

The Stehn car, proceeding east on State Road, opposite the plant of Samuel Jackson Sons Co., Inc., just below Bristol, crashed into the rear of the machine driven by Allen W. Lebo, Jackson street, Bristol.

The Stehn car turned over, and according to Mr. Stehn, his infant daughter was tossed off her mother's lap, through the car window and was plumed beneath the overturned automobile. The child suffered a compound fracture of the skull.

Mr. Stehn, when interviewed following the accident, was at a loss to describe just how his infant daughter was tossed through the door-window of the car. "The door may have sprung open; I cannot tell," he said.

Stehn said that his wife drove to the Badenhausen plant, Cornwells Heights, to meet him after work, and to drive him back home to Fallsington. She had her infant daughter with her, as was her custom. On the trip home, Stehn took the wheel while his wife and daughter occupied the back seat, with the child being in her mother's lap. Wilson and Templeton were riding with the Stehns, as all three men are employed at Badenhausen.

Stehn said that he was driving along State Road when the car ahead of him, operated by Lebo, stopped suddenly, and that in order to avoid striking the Lebo car, Stehn swerved his car sharply to the right. The Stehn automobile overturned because of the sudden swerving and collided with the Lebo car.

Both cars were considerably damaged. The Stehn family is in the process of building a bungalow at Fallsington, into which they moved in July. Stehn said that yesterday was the first time

Night-Long Fighting

Moscow, Aug. 15—Night-long fighting on four principal fronts—no mention was made of the German campaign in the Ukraine—was reported today in the Soviet noon communiqué. The bulletin said: "On the night of Aug. 14, Soviet troops fought stubbornly in the Kholm, Staraya Russia, and Smolensk directions, and on the Estonian sector."

Thus the communiqué indicated that, in addition to the central front, the most bitter engagements were centered on three sides of Leningrad.

Kholm is on the Karelian Isthmus north of Leningrad. Staraya Russia is southeast of the former Czarist capital, and Estonia lies to the southwest of Leningrad.

"Fierce fighting across the entire breadth of the European continent from the Arctic to the Black Sea was announced in the earlier communiqué."

Suggests Rehabilitation of Those Rejected by Army

Washington, Aug. 15—Declaring that America's reservoir of military manpower "is disappointing," Federal Security Administrator McNutt today recommended six changes in national selective service regulations to force an estimated 6,000,000 draft registrants being rejected by the army for physical defects, to undergo "voluntary" rehabilitation treatment.

McNutt also disclosed that steps already are being taken to ask Congress for funds to provide medical treatment for those rejected so that they ultimately can be inducted into the army. It is estimated that millions of dollars will be required.

National draft officials indicate that they would favor such a proposal, explaining that they have been trying to aid in physical rehabilitation in a limited way.

Epidemic Continues

York, Pa., Aug. 15—The infantile paralysis toll in York County mounted to 39 today with the development of five new cases, the largest number in any day since the malady was first reported three weeks ago.

Strict quarantine measures were enforced as Dr. John B. Yeager, York city health director, said 30 or 40 additional cases may develop before the epidemic abates some time in October. Meanwhile the threat of the disease spread to suburban Philadelphia, where one case was reported in Upper Darby.

TWENTY-TWO MEET DEATH IN CRASH OF FERRY PLANE

Arthur Purvis, Director Gen'l
of British Purchasing Commission, Among Dead

WERE LEAVING AIRPORT

LONDON, Aug. 15—(INS)—Twenty-two men, including the Rt. Hon. Arthur Purvis, director general of the British Purchasing Commission in the United States, were killed last night in this week's second crash of trans-Atlantic ferry planes.

Purvis and the other victims were taking off from a British airport, the Air Ministry announced today, en route to Canada. The other men in the wrecked plane were pilots engaged in ferrying American-built planes back to Britain.

Another 22 pilots, seven of them Americans, were killed Sunday when a ferry plane smashed into a hillside in England.

Capt. Harold Balfour, Undersecretary for Air, flew to the scene of the accident with a staff of investigators. A thorough probe was planned, since the two accidents have robbed Britain of more than two-score of her best ferry pilots.

Rotarians Journey To Emilie For Meeting

Approximately 25 local Rotarians journeyed to the Emilie M. E. Church yesterday afternoon for their regular weekly meeting. A delightful dinner was served by the ladies of the church, following which the members enjoyed numerous games. Prizes were given to the winners.

The meeting next week will be held on the lawn of Vincent Henrich. The Rotary-Anns will also be present. A speaker is scheduled for next week.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Vandegrift entertained a group of friends at dinner and after dinner announced the engagement of their son, Stanley, to Miss Helen Denny, of Croydon.

Anthony LaPolla Dies Following An Operation

A well-known Bristol Italian resident died yesterday in the Abington Hospital, following an operation which was performed the day previous.

The deceased, Anthony LaPolla, husband of the late Teresa LaPolla, had been ill about two weeks. He had resided in Bristol for the past 50 years. For many years he conducted a tailoring shop on Mill street. He was a member of the Sons of Italy. A short time ago he was employed at Fort Dix as a clothing inspector.

The deceased is survived by one son, Joseph; mother, Maria; brothers, Nicholas and Charles; sisters, Mrs. Anthony Natale and Mrs. Fred Santamaria, all of Bristol.

The funeral service will be held from the residence of Charles LaPolla, 1418 Farragut avenue, Monday morning at nine o'clock, with high mass in St. Ann's Church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be made in St. Mark's Cemetery, under the direction of Galzerano.

MORRISVILLE POLICE TO CHECK BUILDINGS

Officers To See If Contractors Have Procured Permits For All New Structures

TO ENFORCE BLDG. LAW

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 15—Borough council has ordered its police department to have the officers visit all building operations under construction to ascertain if the proper permits for the building, sanitation, water or gas for the property have been obtained.

It was recently brought to council's attention that a Third Ward developer applied for a building permit in the borough after the house was built, and not before as required by the Board of Adjustment. Borough Engineer Harry H. Lee, Jr., was also authorized to inspect all building operations after a permit is issued to see if the work is in accordance with the application.

The resignation of Byron W. Meredith from the Board of Adjustment was received and accepted.

Residents of Williamson Park complained of the congested condition of Central avenue during the Summer carnivals there. They contended that speeding and reckless driving was evident. The borough fathers instructed the police department to patrol the street after the carnival each night.

The street committee was authorized to proceed with the repair of the culvert, which recently partly caved in on Crown street, at a cost not to exceed $450.

A check for $146.03 was received from the State and was ordered turned over to the Morrisville Firemen's Relief Association.

Condition of Mrs. Lutes Reported "Quite Good"

The condition of Mrs. Anna Lutes, 279 Roosevelt street, was reported late yesterday at the Abington Hospital as being "quite good."

Mrs. Lutes, who with her husband, was driving along Street Road, Edgemoor, enroute to Philadelphia on a shopping trip accidentally fell out onto the highway when a door of the car swung open.

Mrs. Lutes was brought directly to the Harriman Hospital and later that day removed from that institution to the Abington Hospital.

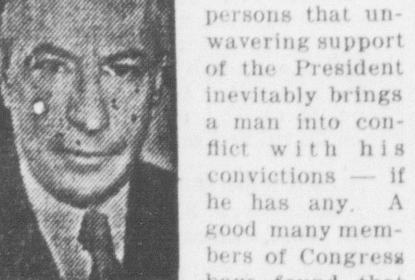

Mrs. Lutes is suffering from a fracture of her arm, fracture of both legs and a head laceration. It was feared, at first, that Mrs. Lutes had also suffered a skull fracture but this was later found to be untrue.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Not Playing The Game

Washington, Aug. 14.
FROM time to time it has been pointed out by a wide variety of persons that unwavering support of the President inevitably brings a man into conflict with his convictions—if he has any. A good many members of Congress have found that out in the past eight years. Another opportunity for the painful discovery shortly will be presented.

AN interesting, if not edifying, roll call impends. Because, when the Senators and Representatives who recently supported the President's veto of the $320,000,000 omnibus highways bill are confronted with the billion-dollar omnibus flood-control bill, exactly the same arguments used to justify their vote on the first will be properly used to

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Two Bucks county farms, one near Perkaskie and the other at Blooming Glen, were visited by about 150 people on Tuesday when the Montgomery County Dairy tour extended into that section.

Under the direction of County Agent William F. Greenawalt, the Montgomery county dairymen visited the farm of Amos Bryan, near Perkaskie, where they saw a herd of 60 pure bred Guernseys. The next stop in Bucks county was at the farm of Leon Bishop, Blooming Glen, where they saw a herd of 45 registered Ayrshires.

In Montgomery county they visited the farm of E. F. Stewart, of Colmar. Mr. Stewart, who is president of the Bucks County Guernsey Breeders' Club, exhibited a herd of 50 Guernseys, and also grass silage methods of preserving with molasses and phosphoric acid. A new grass cutter harvesting machine was also shown.

At the Clemmer and Gotwals farm, near Souderton, the dairy caravan saw a herd of 60 registered Holsteins, four year rotation of corn, wheat and hay crops.

A basket lunch was enjoyed at Menlo Park.

The caravan also visited the Ambler School of Horticulture, where they saw a gold medal Jersey herd maintained on limited acreage.

County Agent R. G. Waltz, of Montgomery county, took part in the caravan.

To attend 4-H Club Week at State College, 45 Bucks county boys and girls left Bucks county, yesterday, in busses under the supervision of Assistant County Agent William H. Wilson and Home Economics Representative Edna Stephany.

The one bus, which left the Administration Building Annex, Doylestown, about 8:15, carried boys and girls representing the 4-H Clubs in the middle and lower sections of the county.

Other 4-H Club boys and girls members of the clubs in the upper section of the county, were picked up at Sellersville and Quakertown.

Scott Esche, well-known Newtown leader in 4-H Club work, is assisting Assistant County Agent Wilson and Miss Stephany as one of the supervisors.

County Agent William F. Greenawalt said that the boys and girls will take part in the various State Judging Contests and demonstrations in agriculture and home economics.

In other years numerous Bucks county 4-H Club members distinguished themselves in some of the contests which brought them state-wide recognition.

The Bucks 4-H contingent will remain at State College until Saturday, when they will return to their homes.

COUNTERFEIT DOLLAR BILLS PASSED HERE

Police Give Warning After Merchants Report Getting
"Bad" Money

TWO INSTANCES STATED

Counterfeit one dollar bills are in circulation here, police believe. Two instances were reported to the police, last night, of persons here who had found counterfeit dollar bills among their day's receipts.

Those finding the "bad" bills could not give police any idea as from whom they received them. They were just taken in with the receipts of the day.

MISSING FOR THREE WEEKS, MAN RETURNS TO BRISTOL

Ralph W. Curry Surprises Mrs.
John Earll As He Walks
Into House

IS GREETED BY FIANCEE

Miss Florence O'Neill Rushes
Into Arms of Her
Sweetheart

Missing from his boarding house here since July 24th, Ralph W. Curry, 28, who since November 25th made his home at the residence of Mrs. John Earll, 322 Wood street, returned yesterday afternoon. As Curry walked into the Earll home where his father, Ralph S. Curry, also resides, Mrs. Earll and other members of the household gazed upon him in amazement.

"Why, Ralph, where have you been?" was shouted in unison.

Curry, who was employed at Fleetwings, Inc., related his own story last night as he sat in the living room of the Earll home with his father and Mrs. Earll. As he was telling his story in walked his fiancée, Miss Florence O'Neill, Philadelphia, who has spent many anxious hours waiting to hear some definite word from her sweetheart. It was a touching scene, last evening, as Miss O'Neill almost jumped out of an automobile in front of the Earll home, rushed into the house and embraced her returned sweetheart.

"Oh, sweetheart!" was the greeting repeated over and over again by Curry as the two wrapped in each other's arms stood in the center of the room. The couple remained embracing each other for several minutes without conversing. The other members of Ralph's family greeted him.

Miss O'Neill, who has been seeking her fiancé far and wide since he disappeared, was overjoyed at his return. She is an attractive brunette of medium height and build. She rushed into the arms of Curry last evening and with head buried in his shoulder she flung both arms around his neck. "Oh! Oh!" she gasped over and over as she clung to her sweetheart. She had visited both Bristol hospitals and according to friends practically all the hospitals in Philadelphia in search of her sweetheart. She was confident that he would return if nothing had happened to him. She had prayed nightly for his safe return.

Curry returned yesterday afternoon and immediately word was sent to his father at the Fleetwings plant. "My knees shook, when I heard that Ralph

"They Met in Bombay"
Coming To Grand Theatre

The Far East! Colorful and exotic Bombay! India! The China Sea! Hong Kong! These are the outposts of the Orient which lend their colorful backgrounds to "They Met in Bombay," which comes to the Grand Theatre, Sunday, for a three-day engagement.

With Clark Gable as a fighting officer of the British army turned soldier of fortune, and Rosalind Russell as an artful adventuress and Lady Raffles matches wits and dramatic resources as its co-stars, "They Met in Bombay" is a thrilling theatrical treat. It is big in every sense.

Gable has never been more vital than he is here as a discredited officer fighting against heavy odds in seeking to re-establish himself and his fortunes. Miss Russell unveils heretofore unexploited talents as the daring, unscrupulous adventuress who first tries to outsmart Gable; then, in defeat, flees with him in madly desperate retreat through Far Eastern ports of call.

The picture is brilliantly directed by Clarence Brown and lavishly produced by Hunt Stromberg for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

RUSSIA'S REPORTS

Moscow claims to have learned from captured Germans that interior Germany is desperately weary of the war. The Germans were stimulated by victories for a time, go these reports. But now they fear that one victory merely leads to more wars and not to those piping times of peace which they covet and which Hitler promised them.

The Russian propagandists claim that at one town their army received thirty-five Germans who voluntarily surrendered. All the deserters said: "We are dead tired. The remains of our strength are going. Many German soldiers wish to escape the clutches of the Hitler war machine to save their lives." Well, perhaps. But this phraseology is Russian, rather than German, and the sentiments expressed sound suspiciously like Russian sentiments.

But according to this Russian version, German soldiers are being worried no end by gloomy letters from relatives and friends at home. One soldier said the last letters he received from relatives in Hamburg "are the cry of people worn out by frequent bombings, broken by war and hunger." Apparently, the Hitler censorship has broken down, too.

In Rumania, the Russians hear the slaughter of men invading Russia has been so heavy that Antonescu, the dictator, has ordered all criminals to the front with the understanding that they will be pardoned of their crimes. Meanwhile the Russians are broadcasting many stories of the heroism of their own people not only at the front but on farms and in factories behind the lines.

One thing stands out: Hitler will be hard pressed from now on to retain his laurel in the propaganda field.

NYLON OUTPUT INADEQUATE

Production of nylon, most important substitute for silk, importation of which has been cut off by economic war with Japan, is 8,000,000 pounds yearly, a huge figure when it is recalled that five years ago nylon was but a test tube experiment, but completely inadequate to replace silk consumption.

A new plant for the manufacture of nylon, which is under construction at Martinsville, Virginia, may double production in another year. But output at that level would probably necessitate complete exclusion of nylon as a consumer product.

It is uncertain whether the priorities system will permit the expansion of nylon production by a considerable amount. Production of nylon requires nitrogen, which is now needed acutely for explosives. After explosive plants now building and planned are in operation, nylon may get the signal to go head. But that will not be for many months. The chief raw material used in the manufacture of nylon, which is coal, does not present a supply problem.

Complete cessation of silk importation cannot avoid bringing about great changes in American consumer habits. Americans will have to become reconciled to that.

With consumer rationing of motor cars, rubber tires and gasoline now feared, a man may have to practice twiddling his thumbs again on Sunday afternoon.

Perhaps Peru stopped fighting when the generals discovered that their names weren't being mentioned in the world's dispatches.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE
Comparing notes on the set of their new co-starring picture, Universal's "The Man Who Lost Himself," now at the Grand Theatre, Brian Aherne and Kay Francis revealed that each became a member of the acting profession by the merest fluke.

Outside of school theatricals, Miss Francis never gave the stage a thought. She had a business career all mapped out for herself and, after leaving college, took a commercial course to prepare for her life in the busy marts of trade.

OTHER INTERESTS

Miss Francis intended to get a job in New York and become a business executive.
"There was a depression on," Miss Francis explained. "There were no jobs. My money ran low. A friend suggested that I get a job playing a small role in a modernized version of 'Hamlet.' I took it. There wasn't much else I could do," she confided to Aherne.

BRISTOL THEATRE
It's "All Hands on Deck" and "Anchors Aweigh" for a boat-load of thrills at the Bristol Theatre these days! Columbia's "Naval Academy," stirring drama of a junior Annapolis, opened yesterday, jammed with excitement and adventure from the time the gangplank goes up until the anchor is dropped at the end of the film!

Freddie Bartholomew, Jimmy Lydon, and Billy Cook are the headliners in a talented cast.
"Border Vigilantes" is also being shown.

RITZ THEATRE

Bette Davis and George Brent had just had the unique experience of playing second fiddle at their own movie wedding.

Except for Bette's white dress and a huge cake, you'd never have known there had been a wedding.
"The performers who took the spotlight away from bride and groom in this wedding sequence that proved there are new ways to get stars married in the movies, were a score of colored singers—men, women and children. They took up where it is presumed the marrying parson left off. And it was a real plantation celebration they staged on "The Great Lie" set at the Ritz Theatre.

Give Your Menus New Interest and Sparkle With Dishes From Far-Away Lands

Of course American cookery is second to none, but sometimes a dish native to some foreign country will perk up appetites and provide new inspiration for the cook. Here are some typical native dishes.

From Russia—Kurnik

1 stewed chicken, cut small
1 cup cooked rice
4 chopped hard boiled eggs
1 pound chopped mushrooms
1 large onion fried in butter
½ cup sour cream
Mix these with a white sauce to which a dash of lemon has been added. Line a deep baking dish with rich pastry. Fill with the chicken mixture. Brush the top crust with well beaten egg and bake. Serve with Bechamel Sauce. This is a thin white sauce to which a dash of lemon juice has been added.

From Mexico

Cheese Souffle with Mexican Sauce
3 cups grated bread crumbs
2 tablespoons canned pimento, chopped

½ teaspoon dry mustard
1½ cups milk
½ cup grated cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 beaten egg yolks

Place the above in mixing bowl. Set in refrigerator for several hours, then fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into buttered dish and bake in moderate oven until firm. About 30 to 40 minutes.

2 tablespoons fat
1 cup meat stock or bouillon cube
½ cup tomato catsup
1 tablespoon minced green pepper

2 1/3 tablespoons browned flour
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon minced onion
Salt, paprika, celery salt
Brown onion and pepper in bacon fat. Make sauce of other ingredients and serve with souffle.

Fish a la Vienne

From Vienna

Make slits across a Bass. Stuff with the following: Mushrooms, parsley, butter and seasoning which have been simmered for a few minutes. Put lumps of butter on the fish and bake. When half done, pour over sour cream, baste often. Serve with the following sauce: 1 tablespoon lard, 1 teaspoon flour, stock, 2 tablespoons sour cream, paprika, and some of the mushroom stuffing. Pour over the fish when serving.

From Turkey—Pilaf

To two quarts salted boiling water add slowly 1 cup rice, so as not to stop the boiling, boil 20 minutes, drain, rinse with cold water. Saute a minced onion in butter, add to rice. Stew a No. 3 can of tomatoes with a bay leaf and a few stalks of celery until thick. Strain and add to rice. Fold in two cups of diced lobster or shrimp or chicken livers, and ½ cup grated cheese. Heat and serve. Instead of adding cheese to mixture, you can butter a mold, dredge it with browned bread crumbs, pack in the rice, steam. Serve with following sauce: To two cups highly seasoned white sauce add 8 tablespoons grated cheese, cook in double boiler until cheese is melted.

From France—Bouillabaisse

Use 6 slices of red snapper and 6 slices of red fish. Rub with salt and pepper. Mince 3 sprigs thyme, 3 sprigs parsley, 3 bay leaves, 1 garlic clove, 6 ground allspice, and mix thoroughly and rub into fish. In pan heat 2 tablespoons olive oil, cook 2 chopped onions, add fish slices, cover, cook 10 minutes, remove fish. Add ½ can tomatoes, ½ lemon in thin slices, salt and pepper. Boil until reduced one half. Replace fish, boil 5 minutes. Dissolve a pinch of saffron, spread over top of fish, take out of pan, lay each piece on toast which has been fried in butter. Pour the sauce over the fish.

From Holland—Dutch Snijboonen

Pick green beans when tender. Wash and trim and then cut into thin slices. Put a layer of beans in the bottom of a jar, then a layer of salt about one-third as much salt as beans. Continue this until all the beans are gone. It is almost impossible to use too much salt. This keeps them green and crisp. Leave in the jar a few weeks with weight on the beans. Then put them in jars and cover with brine. Put a small handful of salt on the top and turn on the lid. When preparing for the table, cook the beans in clear water until tender. Drain and put on fresh water. Let come to a boil and continue this until the beans are not too salty. Drain and add 1 teaspoon sugar to a quart of beans and season with plenty of butter and a little pepper. A little milk and thickening may be added if desired, also a dash of nutmeg. These beans are also very tasty when flavored with bits of crisply fried bacon.

From Italy—Italian Spaghetti

¾ pound sausage or hamburger
Garlic or onion
1 package spaghetti
1 cup tomatoes
1 green pepper
Salt and sugar
Boil spaghetti in salt water until done. Shape meat into little balls and fry with minced onion or garlic. When done, add the spaghetti, tomatoes, chopped pepper, salt and sugar and let simmer 30 minutes.

From Brazil—Camaro a Bahiana

2 pounds shrimps
1 hot pepper
1 onion
12 tomatoes
2 sweet peppers
Parsley
1 clove garlic, or less
1 cup olive oil
Peel shrimps and clean; also peel tomatoes and remove seeds. Fry in oil the minced onions and the hot pepper, minced, until a golden brown. Add the shrimps and the minced tomatoes (without the seeds) and salt to taste. Cook slowly for 5 minutes. Then add the minced sweet peppers, some chopped parsley and the garlic. Serve with boiled rice.

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

By International News Service

HARRISBURG, Aug. 15—The State Council of Defense is distributing bulletins explaining to the public what part they can play in the civilian defense program. . . . The Council especially urged that each man and woman read the pamphlet entitled "Civilian Defense—Twelve Ways in Which Each Private Citizen of Pennsylvania Can Help Defend America."

"We are living in one of the most dangerous hours in the history of the American Republic," the Defense Council stated. "Fortunately, we in America still have time to prepare our defense for dangers that are slowly creeping across the face of the whole earth."

The Council urged the public to "join now in the program of the State Council of Defense by informing yourself carefully and thoroughly about the Council's plans, and by giving your loyal and enthusiastic and vigorous co-operation to every possible phase of the program." . . . President Roosevelt, the Council pointed out, coined the slogan "Make America the Arsenal of Democracy" and Governor James paraphrased it to read "Make Pennsylvania the Arsenal of America." . . . "Will you do your part?" the Council asked.

The resignation of John B. Kelly as chairman of the Philadelphia Democratic Committee adds a new flair to an off-year campaign which has already had many surprises, such as the dismissal of William J. Hamilton, Jr., as Secretary of Revenue, and the inauguration of an insurgent movement within the Republican party. . . . Kelly resigned to devote his full time to the post of National Director of Civilian Health Training.

The Democratic party has made unusual gains in the formerly rock-ribbed Republican city since he was elected in 1934, replacing John O'Donnell. . . . Only a year before Kelly had been a registered Republican. . . . During his seven years of Philadelphia leadership he saw the Democratic party take a big stride in Philadelphia, with President Roosevelt carrying the city by large majorities in the last two Presidential elections. . . .

Kelly for a time was Secretary of Revenue in the Earle Administration and made an unsuccessful race for Mayor of Philadelphia in 1935.

Nearly one bill out of every eight passed by the 1941 Legislature is being vetoed by Gov. Arthur H. James. . . . Of 461 bills acted upon, the Governor has disapproved 54 so far. . . . In three weeks after the Legislature adjourned, the Governor acted upon 254 bills, or an average of 84 bills a week. . . . His best average was about 35 a day.

DOUGLAS A-20A

Here is a silhouette of a bomber so swift and so deadly that it is being used as a fighter in Europe's war . . . a transformation which illustrates the superiority of American aircraft. The ship shown is the Douglas A-20A attack bomber, in production for the U. S. Air Corps. An export version, the DB-7, is going to the British, who have been so impressed by the speed, maneuverability and firepower that they are utilizing the DB-7s (nicknamed the Havoc) as night fighters to beat off Nazi raids and attack enemy air fields. Characteristic of the A-20A and DB-7 are the sleek, plastic-enclosed bombardier's position in the nose, the tricycle landing gear (retracted in this view) and the long, streamlined nacelles housing the powerful Wright or Pratt & Whitney engines.

that Templeton had ridden with him. Mrs. Stehn was prostrated last night at her home and was unable to relate the details of the accident which snatched the life of her little daughter, almost right out of her arms.

Stehn, when seen at his home in Fallington, was pacing back and forth outside of the rear of his house. His arms were folded and with head down and with quivering lips he told of the tragedy. He described how they were just building the bungalow which is not yet finished and how little Joanne had met such an untimely death.

The accident was investigated by Private Phillips, Penna. Motor Police, Deputy Coroner Dr. Charles Sampel viewed the body of the dead child.

Both drivers were held to await the action of the Coroner.

By having these donations taken at their places of employment donors need be away from their work only for a brief period, saving both travel, time and expense. The Red Cross asks the plant or office where donations are taken only to provide a suitable room with two or three cots and chairs. All other necessary articles are provided by the Red Cross. Any industry or business with 30 or more employees willing to make blood donations may get in touch with the local branch of American Red Cross, 120 Mill street, to arrange for a time when the blood donor unit may visit their plants. Each volunteer blood donor receives a lapel button indicating his contribution to national defense. SUNDAY DINNER

Suggestions

Late summer's choicest fruit of ferns, the rich, juicy grape, is beginning to appear on the market in quantity this week to tempt the budget-wise to make jelly, and preserves. The quality and quantity of peaches, too, makes them an excellent choice for all sorts of canning against winter's needs.

Among other budget buys are corn, beets, green beans, celery, cucumbers, squash, peas, currants, gooseberries, honeydews, limes and early new varieties of apples.

With few exceptions, meat prices are little changed from last week. Fractional drops are reported on lamb rib chops and pork loins. Best poultry buys are fowl, broiling and frying chickens.

Many housewives lend variety to summer menus with fish. Excellent fish buys are haddock, mackerel and flounders. Salmon is somewhat lower, and can be prepared in many ways—with aspic, with mayonnaise or boiled—for cool-appearing attractive meals.

To assist the homemaker plan her Sunday dinner Marion Rouse Budd, director of the A & P Kitchen, has prepared the following menus for three different budgets:

Low Cost Dinner
Lamb Stew with Fresh Peas, Carrots, Potatoes
Tomato and Lettuce Salad
Bread and Butter
Custard Pudding with Sliced Peaches
Tea or Coffee

Medium Cost Dinner
Maryland Style Smothered Chicken
Mashed Potatoes
Fresh Corn
Hot Biscuits
Lettuce and Cucumber Salad

Missing For Three Weeks, Man Returns To Bristol

had come back," said the elder Curry. Father and son met outside of the plant and then both returned to the Earl residence.

On arriving in Bristol yesterday Curry telephoned Miss O'Neill and she was driven here by friends last evening. The couple had planned to be married sometime this month before Curry left. Last night they said they did not know when the wedding would occur.

Curry visited the Municipal Building and informed Chief Jones of his return. He told the Chief: "the job got too much for me." He also informed Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo that he was back.

Police had searched for Curry at the instigation of his father and a radio appeal was broadcast and teletype description sent out over a several state hookup.

Curry told a Courier representative, last night, before the arrival of his fiancée: "I had to get away for a while. While away I got another job and started work Monday in a Brooklyn plant."

Giving more of the details of his disappearance Curry who left the Earl home late on the night of July 24th, after his father had retired said that he walked toward Trenton, got a ride with a man and applied at a Trenton factory for employment. "They would not give me the job I wanted, so I walked to Newark, then I took a train to New York where I got a room."

"I went out to search for a job and made several contacts but could not get the kind of work I wanted. I have a brother in Brooklyn so finally I contacted him and through him got employment in Brooklyn. Curry did not say where he is employed but stated that he was doing "ship work."

It was a happy reunion between Curry and his sweetheart last evening and they sat for hours at the Earl home discussing their affairs.

The elder Curry said that his son is of a nervous type and that he believed this was the cause of his disappearance.

Curry's disappearance was reported to Bristol police July 24th by his father, the last relative to speak with him the several hours before it was found he had left the premises.

According to the elder Curry he arrived at the Earl home, where he rented a room, at one a. m. July 24th. Noticing that his son Ralph was still up, the father inquired if the son were waiting for him, to which he received a negative reply. The elder Curry then retired to his own room.

The next morning before the Currys were to report for work at Fleetwings, Inc., Mrs. Earl called the son. It was then that his disappearance was noted. His pajamas were laid across a chair. A careful search of the room by the father revealed as far as he could ascertain that no suits of clothing were missing.

friends on the Rivers and Harbors Committee to include his pet project, the St. Lawrence seaway, in the omnibus flood-control bill, where he knows it has no business at all, and in which already is included the discredited and twice-rejected Florida ship canal, which has no business there either, "Acquiescence" in this trick—because it is a trick—clearly means that the President recognizes that the St. Lawrence project is not strong enough to stand on its own feet.

KNOWING that it will not pass Congress on its merits, in order to secure passage apparently he is willing to connive in a plan to make it part of a bill which includes appropriation items appealing to sections of the country where opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway is strong. This is equivalent to informing Congress that if the St. Lawrence seaway is in the bill the President will sign it. It is, then, certainly natural for Congressmen to conclude that if the St. Lawrence seaway is not in the bill there at least is a possibility the President will veto it as he did the highways bill, on the grounds that it, too, is a pork-barrel bill not in the interests of national economy. Just as strong a case can be made against the flood-control bill as was made against the highways bill, without either the St. Lawrence project or the Florida ship canal.

WITH those two exceedingly dubious proposals included, there is twice as much reason for a veto. Yet Mr. Roosevelt's attitude makes the deduction unescapable that he will sign the bill if the St. Lawrence proposal is included and veto it if it is left out. Of course, the President does not say that he will veto the bill unless the project for which he is so anxious is in it, and the idea that he would hold this sort of blackjack over Congress will be indignantly denied. Nevertheless, any Congressman who does not understand that the best way to get the flood-control item in which his district or State is interested is to include the St. Lawrence seaway in this bill just is not very bright.

ONE obvious effect of the President's "acquiescence" is to give the St. Lawrence seaway project a chance for success which it otherwise would not have. By hooking it up with the flood-control bill the arguments against it are muffled and it may easily logroll through a Congress which would not pass it as a detached proposition. A second effect is to encourage Congress to load the flood-control bill with all sorts of projects which ordinarily would not make the grade. A third effect will be to increase the authorizations in the flood-control bill by more than the $320,000,000 which was the total amount authorized in the vetoed highways bill.

ALTOGETHER, it is a most unpleasant picture. It threatens to turn the flood-control bill into a general grab for Treasury money for projects which gain voting strength by being lumped together but which would not get by on their own merits if voted upon separately. It is the sort of thing the American people should be informed about and, informed, should protest. There is nothing in the unlimited emergency, the exigencies of national defense or the necessity of supporting the President's foreign policy to condone it.

ADMINISTRATION officials who have urged the St. Lawrence seaway as a defense measure have done so because they knew Mr. Roosevelt, personally, was interested. Some of them did it to curry favor with the President; others, because they had intimations it would be a good thing to do. The plain truth, which every posted person knows, is that if it were not for Mr. Roosevelt no one would be urging the project now and it would have no chance whatever of adoption. The new plan of getting it through is taking advantage of the people. It is a mild thing to say that it is not playing the game.

Defenders Like These Papers, Army Men Say

Nothing makes a selective service man in camp happier than a letter from home or a home-town newspaper in the daily mail, army officials said recently after an extensive survey.

Next in order, the selective service youth likes sweets such as candy, cookies and chocolates—and chewing gum!

Officers say that on the march the gum helps keep the boys from drinking too much water and from dipping into their lunch ration.

Other offerings which bring a smile of pleasure to the enrollee include a general repertoire of utilities among which are books of stamps, flashlights, a towel now and then, toilet articles, and reading materials.

Officers say that if relatives want to be sure their addressee gets what's mailed to him, they should address the letter or package in this way: Name first, his company or battery second, his regiment third, and, lastly the name of the post office.

Miss Iva May Walters Weds Mr. Fred'k L. Stewart, Jr., Here

A quiet wedding occurred last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Stewart, Sr., 576 Bath street, when Miss Iva May Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Walters, Bath Road, Bristol Township, became the bride of Mr. Frederick L. Stewart, Jr.

The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by the Rev. Willis Henry Bolte, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Bristol.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Alice Walters, and the groom's attendant was Mr. George Lovett, Bath street, Bristol.

The bride was attractive in cadet blue silk crepe, white picture hat and navy blue shoes. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Walters, was dressed in a black and white striped street dress with white picture hat and accessories to match. She wore a corsage of white roses.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Stewart home for the immediate members of the families of the contracting couple.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

With so many folks away, shopping in the big stores is a more leisurely, less crowded affair. With juicy little sales around almost every counter's corner, a shopping day is now apt to turn into a wild and satisfying adventure!

How they do it is beyond me! The new Balcony Lending Library at Snellenburg's store is renting all the latest fiction and non-fiction best sellers at exactly a penny a day! Not even a deposit is required—merely self-identification. Just now the Balcony Library provides an especial wealth of light reading for vacationists, although the more studious folks are well taken care of, too. Keep the books at one penny a day each for fourteen days. Thereafter three pennies a day are paid, unless the book is brought in for renewal. The clever little Librarian has swell suggestions!

Scurry to town for the semi-annual Snellenburg Housewares Sale now in full swing. It's extended into September, but remember, earliest shoppers are invariably the luckiest. Scads of real buys which you'll certainly appreciate. See especially the Miracle Automatic Electric Roaster for $13.99—instead of $21.50! Cooks whole meat at one time, and for as many as ten people! Roasts, bakes, stews, broils, fries. Costs about as much as your electric iron to run. Two hours of cooking usually requires one hour of current. The Roaster is swanky looking. I'd like to have one for my own delight. (3rd fl.)

I remind you again—during August do visit the charming little six-room "Thrift House", colonial exterior and all, built in Snellenburg's 5th fl. Furniture Dept. It is furnished in perfect taste, yet sale prices of similar things are so low as to make even this professional perfection inexpensive to duplicate. Even though you can afford little that is new, the Thrift House will give you inspiring ideas for rejuvenating the furnishings you already have. Do make a real visit.

Have you seen the new black felt hats cleverly trimmed with soft, lustrous chenille? Latest millinery note! Becoming because chenille softens. It is loosely woven in fringe-like and lace-like edgings. Altogether charming in Snellenburg's 2nd fl. Millinery Salon. The "padre" is in a $4.95 for some plaid gingham. Red pre-grown. Some others have chenille dominates in the pattern. Full-enoods. Off-the-face and over-the-shoulder. Distinctive crowns. Chenille-trimmed hats, good now and throughout winter.

Had your vacation yet? Well, have a good time wherever you are, away or at home. Don't forget you can order things by mail and phone. "F. C."

Summer art needleworkers are busily preparing attractive show-er gifts. Snellenburg's 4th fl. Art Needlework Dept. is now displaying some delightful summer work pieces for fall and winter kitchens. Newest of all is the "Vitamin Parade" design of colored appliques upon linen-finished towel-ling. The design is upon towels, place mats, napkins, etc. And any new housewife, or old one, would be delighted with a gift of a "Vitamin Parade" towel-ling apron. Bright vegetables, of appliqued patches, are used. Aprons and patches, 65c, unfinished, and $1.75, finished. But do make one yourself!

The trickiest tiny ironing board for packing in a trunk, large suitcase, or for hanging on the wall at home, is now to be had in Snellenburg's Housewares Dept. Priced at but $1, it is worth its convenient weight in gold. Its reversible standard is a real sleeve board. It is really double and collapsible and needs no fastening to table. Both boards are nicely padded and covered with elastic-edged muslin. It's a joy, is this gadget. Makes a nice going-away present, a nice shower gift, and, personally, I expect to purchase one to supplement my larger board.

Blitzkrieg that late invasion of ants in the house or on the lawn! The Snellenburg Garden Dept. (1st fl.) has "Buckeye Antube" that mows 'em down. Folks say the ants are routed in 24 hours. Just a drop from the tube on line of march. When it is necessary to take precautions against pets and children coming into contact with Antube, put some on one of the dozen patented "sand traps" packed with the tube. Great stuff!

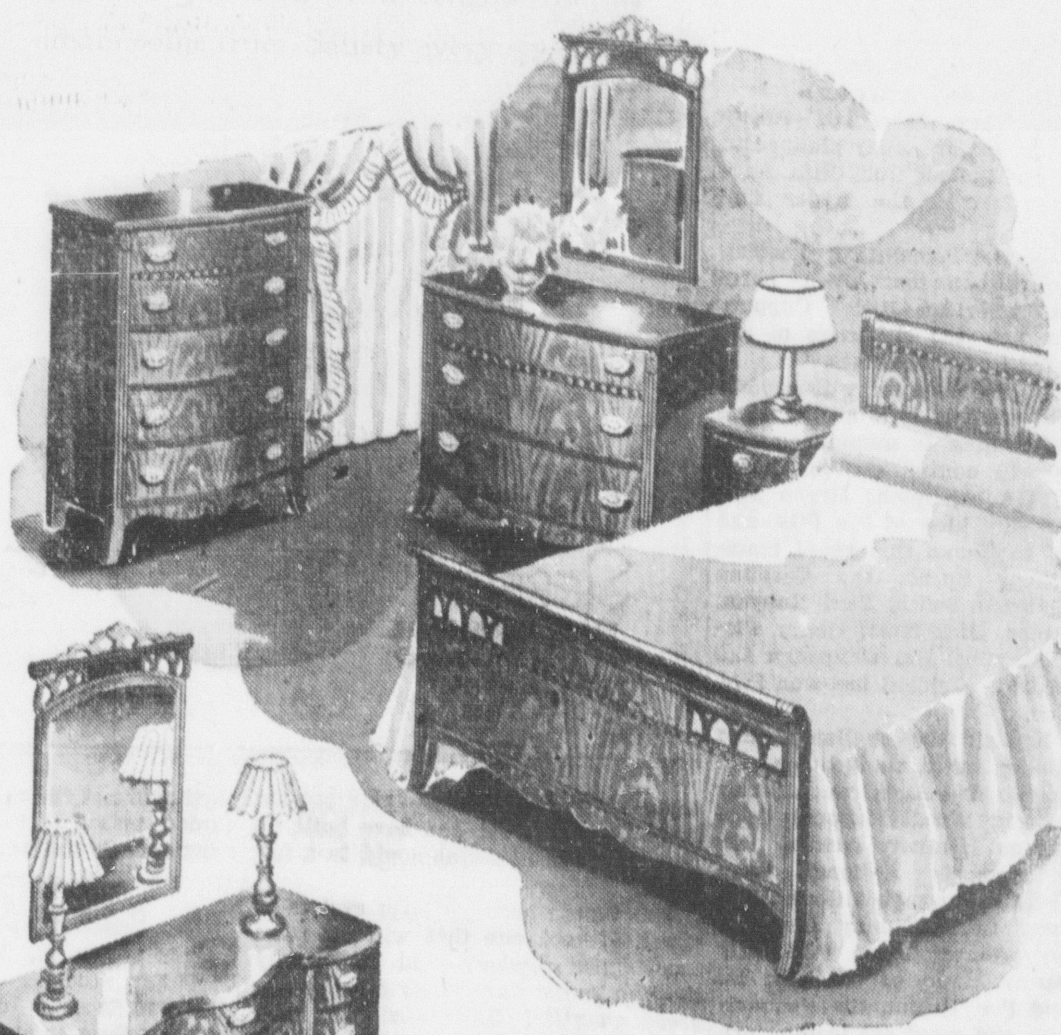

Nice little teen dresses, and actually named "Teen", for girls 10 to 16. Not only are girls buying them for school, but young business girls say they're just the thing. Find them in the Teen Dept. on Snellenburg's 2nd fl. Gingham, chambrays, etc., and on the tailored side. I particularly fell for some plaid gingham. Red pre-grown. Some others have chenille dominates in the pattern. Full-enoods. Off-the-face and over-the-shoulder. Distinctive crowns. Chenille-trimmed hats, good now and throughout winter.

RYDER CUP TEAM, STARS POINT TO CLASSIC DUEL

Veteran Rivals Will Also Clash On The Program

SCHEDULED AUG. 23, 24

Accept Challenge of Team
Headed by Bobby
Jones

By Hugh Munce
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

DETROIT, Aug. 15—(INS)—America's greatest golfers today planned to gather at the Detroit Golf Club, August 23rd and 24th for the Ryder Cup match.

With the war conditions keeping British golfers on their own home front, the American Ryder Cuppers have accepted the challenge of the team headed by Bobby Jones.

Veteran Walter Hagen will captain the Ryder men but will not compete himself, according to announcements. His team will consist of Vic Ghezzi, National PGA champion; Bryon Nelson, last year's king of the PGA and runner-up to Ghezzi this year; Slamming Sammy Snead, the Carolina clouter; Horton Smith, Paul Runyan, Jimmy Hines, Dick Metz, Henry Picard, ex-PGA king; Hal McSpaden and Ralph Guldahl. Guldahl has won PGA titles twice.

Those hurling the challenge are: Captain Bobby Jones, many times winner of British and American amateur crowns; Craig Wood, National Open king; Clayton Heafner, Lawson Little, last season's National Open champion; the knicker-garbed Gene Sarazen, Johnny Bulla, Jimmy Demaret, big money winner; twice PGA title holder Denny Shute, of Chicago; Ed Dudley and Ben Hogan, the Pennsylvania putter and voted the leading pro of 1940.

This star-studded affair promises to be a highlight of the links world's activity this year, aside from the main competition in this dazzling field, three of the most able clubbers and one of the most respected stick wielders in the upper brackets of golfing will match strokes the day preceding the Ryder meet to settle a personal but not bitter score.

Hagen, who has won more than a dozen national championships, will pair off with the knickered Sarazen, who has competed in 22 national opens and topped three PGA crowns in an attempt to subdue Bobby Jones and Tommy Armour in the added attraction.

Armour boasts of numerous British and American open and amateur championships and Jones has ridden the same boat that the "Silver Scot" has all along the river leading to the Golfers' Hall of Fame.

A decade and a half ago Hagen humiliated the then champion kingfish of golf, Jones, by challenging and defeating him. Last winter the pair renewed their vigorous rivalry when they doubled at Nassau. The golf-minded Duke of Windsor refereed that match, which went to the Jones and Armour combine, 3 to 2.

The day before the Masters' tourney at Augusta, Ga., this season, the same quartet clashed again and doggedly continued until a deadlock was admitted, after much time and energy was spent.

Now the rubber match. All proceeds of this special meeting will be turned over to the United Service Organization.

GIANTS HOPE FOR BETTER FUTURE

By Lawton Carver
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—Every once in so often Mr. Horace Stoneham finds it necessary to explain the predicament of the New York Giants and to defend his almost untenable position as their owner, whereupon he announces to the assembled press about as follows:

"We are going to clean house next year. The Giants will be rebuilt. We are going to have a winning team."

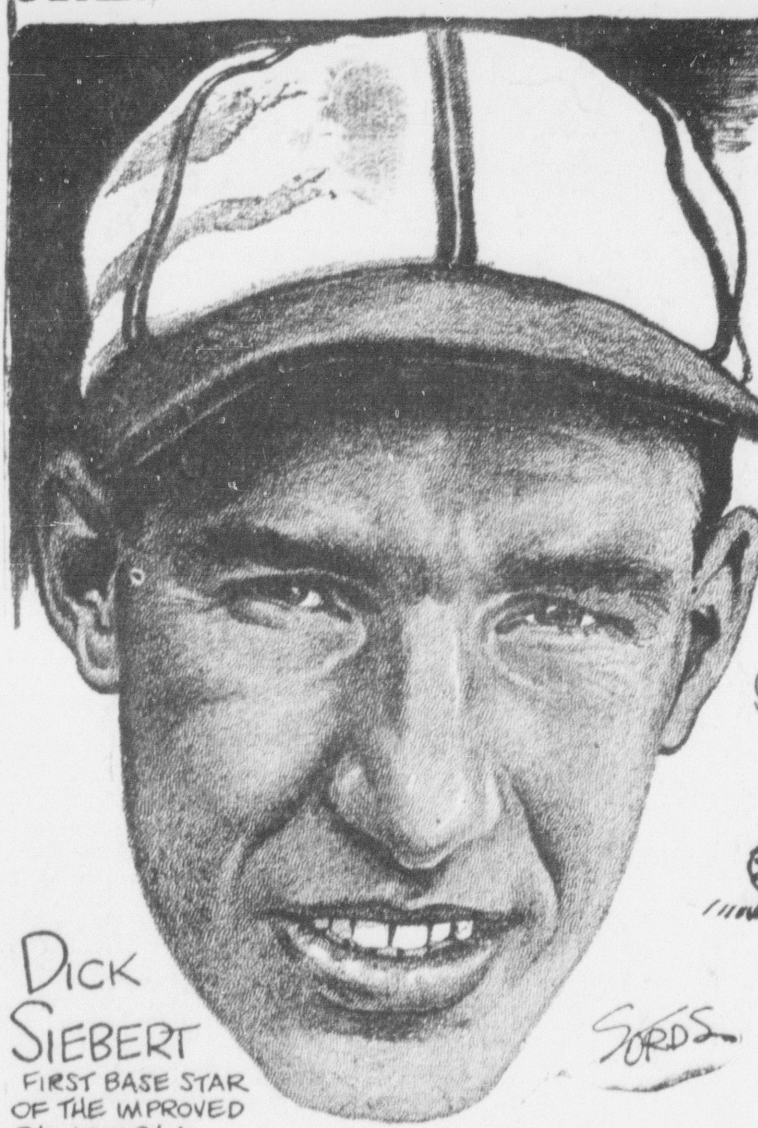

Mr. Stoneham knows better, of course, and undoubtedly realizes that there is very little he can do immediately to assuage the anguish of his clientele with its loyalty founded on the tradition left by John McGraw and Mr. Stoneham's own father, who owned the Giants and handed them down as one of the game's cornerstones. They've crumbled into utter ruin by this time. Look at the National League standings for this year for a line on their present plight, then glance at their roster to see what the future holds for them. They and the Philadelphia Phillies eventually will be keeping company down in the basement.

And the young boss of the Giants must know very well that it is going to be an extremely hard job to make up ground lost through lack of planning and catch the St. Louis Cardinals, Brooklyn Dodgers and some of the rest, including the Pittsburgh Pirates. The latter haven't been any too progressive either, but neither have they left themselves become bogged down beyond immediate succor. As for the Cards and Dodgers, they will be in every future pennant race for years with any kind of breaks at all.

The Cards have been cashing in on a farm system second to none, not excluding even the New York Yankees. The Cards could muster a second team that would stand up very well beside the Giants, the Phillies and some of the rest. The Dodgers are not quite that well off, but have built up about as fast as a club could in a few years.

The Giants have no farm system to speak of—not one that will do them much good anyhow—and reportedly they no longer have ready cash in any great quantity. Quite obviously they are lacking in sterling trading material. The answer to the plans for a better team next year must be that Mr. Stoneham will pull some snappy fielding, 300 hitters and winning pitchers out of his sleeves during the winter. He had better do something of the kind, or that fate worse than death will be overtaking the Giants soon, meaning that they will finish even below the Phillies.

Mr. Stoneham's promises in the form of short, crisp well-turned sentences won't help the situation. No one ever has found a substitute for good ball players in trying to build a good ball club. Once in awhile a team comes along that confounds the critics and causes them to wonder what makes it click, but that club still has something. The Giants haven't and, as far as the naked eye can see, haven't much chance of doing anything about it.

Just how much of the blame should be heaped on Bill Terry, the $42,500 a year managerial genius and director of the farms, is a point for Mr. Stoneham to decide. That Terry won't be manager of the Giants after next year—when his contract runs out—is a virtual certainty and he may not even last that long. In fairness to the genius, it might be said that under the present setup it isn't likely that any one else could do any better, which leads to the supposition that some one else might try to improve the setup. Whatever happens, we hope that another season won't be started with a prediction of a first division finish by Terry and a later promise by Mr. Stoneham that the club will be rebuilt next year. That can get as monotonous as the Giants' repeated defeats.

Talk About British Counter-Invasion

London, Aug. 15—Talk of a British counter-invasion of the European continent was revived today as this country continued to hail jubilantly word of the sea meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

All quarters were convinced that results of the dramatic session went far beyond the announced eight-point Anglo-American peace aims.

One of the main points of discussion, it was assumed, was acceleration to assistance for the Soviet Union.

Government authorities continued to throw cold water on hopes of the man in the street that the British might take the initiative against Germany by land in the near future. This country, it was insisted, must continue to wage a defensive war for the time being.

Nevertheless the London News Chronicle revived speculation regarding a possible British land blow. London observers, the paper said, "believe that if the British land on the continent, it will probably be at Murmansk or Archangel."

The News Chronicle pointed out that Murmansk was the more suitable, because it is ice-free during the winter, and also is placed strategically for an attack on the enemy in both Norway and Finland.

tense industries, our agencies are responsible for finding out needs in recreational activities, seeing that eating places are well inspected, that the supply of public health nurses is adequate," she added. "This is done largely through local machinery but in 'hot spots' we have a representative who stimulates the community, sets up committees to help them in doing the necessary welfare work. We find out of enough government help is available and try to get more if needed.

"In other words, we try to keep the community equal to meeting its extraordinary needs."

Miss Switzer is described in Washington as "the eyes and ears of Paul McNutt" in the health field trips to see if the local units are functioning properly, handles the liaison work between the Administrator on one side and the Public Health Service and the Health and Medical Committee and the Food and Drug Administration on the other.

"I try and forecast needs as well as smooth out obstacles in the paths of our programs," she explained. "Many of them are new and we need to keep as close a contact with the public as we can to find how they are working out."

A tall, smiling woman, Miss Switzer has been a government worker for many years. She worked first as an inspector in the Minimum Wage Bureau, then went into the Treasury Department where she was later placed on the staff of Secretary Andrew Mellon. Her special responsibility was clipping magazines and newspapers to give him a digest of what to read.

She was assistant to the head of the Editorial Report Service under President Hoover's Administration, and later went back to the Treasury Department, working in the public health field.

The agency under her present position attempts to draw together all agencies and bureaus working in its special fields of interest and to serve as a promotional informative office.

The bureaus in the agency co-operate with state and local committees, with women's clubs and inform citizens how they can help in solving the needs of their community brought about by the defense program.

Miss Switzer is convinced that this concentration on health and community betterment will last well beyond the period of the emergency.

"Just as out of the last war, the worthwhile innovations continued after the peace was signed, so now many of our services will be strengthened, and extended as the result of our extra work in defense."

"We've needed desperately for years to concentrate on industrial health and the individual work's health problems. Big steps are being taken now and the whole outlook of the people on the problem is being changed."

"Health is being brought to sections which never had it before and the benefits won't fade with the end of the emergency."
